MADRID, Oct. 4, 1874. Mr. Layard, Minister of Great Britain, and M. de Chaudordy, the newly appointed Minister of France, were received by President Serrano last evening in the customary ceremonies and presented their credentials.

M. de Chaudordy, addressing the President, hoped that the difficulties of Spain, which now seemed passing away, would soon wholly disappear, and gave expression to the wishes of his government for continued friendship between the two nations.

Marshal Serrano thanked the Minister for his cordial expression, and fully reciprocated the friendly desires of France.

Mr. Layard, on presenting his credentials, declared his confidence in the triumph of the Spanish government in the present crisis.

The Virginian Affair and Our Claim Against Spain.

Whether there is truth or not in the report of a foreign journal that S. ain has paid the indemnity demanded by Great Britain in the Virginian case, in behalf of her subjects, it is certain that our government is still pressing upon Spain the importance of an arrangement by which the United States' demand may be satisfied. The Spanish government, as heretofore, refers to the state of the country as an excuse for its non-action and prefers counter claims against the United States.

AMUSEMENTS.

Grand Opera House—First Sunday Operatic Concert.

The first of a series of Sunday concerts at this splendid theatre took place last evening, some of the principal members of the Strakos Italian Opera taking part in the attractive numbers of the programme. The orchestra, under the experienced leadership of Mr. S. Behrens, played the overture to "Stradella," the allegretto from the eighth symphony of Beethoven and the march from "Tannhauser." The principal feature of novelty was the American debut of Miss Donadio, one of the prime beauties of the troupe. She sang two well known songs from "Il Barbiere," and "Una voce poco fa," from "Il Barbiere." Her voice is a high, clear, pleasant soprano, the timbre being of a rather brilliant order, and the higher notes particularly crystalline and penetrating. The timidity and nervousness attending a first appearance interlarded somewhat with her execution of the trying nuid passages of Rossini, but in the selection from Meyerbeer's beautiful opera "L'elisir d'amore," sung with a degree of art and effect that brought down the house. This success was all the more notable inasmuch as the memory of the Grand Opera House concerts. An appearance in opera in a congenial role will, doubtless, make Miss Donadio a favorite at the Academy. Signora Fontana sang two arias from "La Juive," and "Robert le Diable," and, although the remarkable dramatic excellence of her voice was somewhat obscured by the tones of Zucchi, whom she closely resembles as a singer, yet her proper sphere is the opera, and in the selection from Meyerbeer's beautiful opera "L'elisir d'amore," sung with a degree of art and effect that brought down the house.
